Valedictory

Parents, friends, teachers, and classmates:

I am very happy and proud to speak to you tonight. I would like to have you continue with the crew members and myself on our voyage on the "Ship of Tomorrow."

As we journey into the voyage of life, we will encounter rough waters and perhaps many times get caught in the shoals. Yet, as we stand here in the helm of the "Ship of Tomorrow," we see many new horizons for youth.

First, there is the horizon of "leadership". Never before has there been a time when leadership was so vitally important. We all know there is great need for a leader, who has the strength and personality to lead us back to a peaceful world. Who knows, maybe a member of our own crew will become that leader.

We see, also, the horizon of different kinds of work awaiting us. Looking about us, we see the vocations that have not yet been touched. For example, the air-age brought many new types of work for everyone and now the atomic age is just opening with new frontiers for many.

Another horizon we see, and one which we consider to be of utmost importance, is that of equal educational opportunities. The benefits of a small school such as our own should be more equal to those of the larger ones.

Our recreational programs need enlarging. They need to provide recreation for all ages. The majority of people work only eight hours a day which gives them more free time than formerly. When men worked twelve or fourteen hours a day, they were too tired for outside recreation. Times have changed that and opened new fields so working people can find spiritual inspiration and relaxation.

We would like to mention the horizon of "social equality". We cannot just sit down and feel superior to other people. We must learn to appreciate the cultures of all people and to accept those of which we do not approve.

We have only mentioned a few of the more important horizons the members of the "Ship of Tomorrow" will face as they leave high school, but with steady hands at the wheel and a keen eye ahead, we feel that we can go forth with a feeling of steadfastness and ability to succeed.

It is very pleasant being here together on this voyage but it is also pleasant to look back to our carefree high school days, which Ruth Abbott, our Historian, will now review for you.

-- Rosemary Salmon

Salutatory

"SHIP OF TOMORROW"

Friends: May I introduce you to the crew of the "Ship of Tomorrow" the class of '51.

We have had four years together--some days were pleasant, some days were sad. In spite of the occasional trials, disappointments, and failures, these years have indeed been happy. We have arrived at the shore about to embark on our voyage of life. With mingled feelings of sadness and joy, we leave our friends, the students and teachers of Camden Frontier.

While we regard Commencement as a goal which has been attained, in reality it is only a beginning--a step forward. Life has so far been a mixture of work and play. We have established a foundation on which to build our future. We have taken the prescribed courses of study in grade and high school. We have taken part as young people in the activities of the school as well as having pursued the class work. We have tried to conduct ourselves so that we have been accepted as a part of the community in which we reside. We are just normal, average, American young people; full of hope, full of enthusiasm, full of plans. From now on, life will be what we ourselves make it. We hope to make it worthwhile.

Before embarking, we want to give thanks to those who have helped to bring us safely to this shore. Our thanks to the teachers who have guided us along the way with their patience, help, and understanding; our thanks to our pals of Camden Frontier for the many pleasant memories we share; our thanks to our parents, who with willing assistance and encouragement have kept our faith firm; our thanks to the school board who has made our education possible; and last but not least, our thanks to the numerous friends who have lent a helping hand along the way.

Shipmates, our voyage lies ahead, our course is not yet set, but you will be safe in the hands of the captain of our ship, our Valedictorian, Rosemary Salmon.

So on the seas of Life----sail on our "Ship of Tomorrow."

--Joan Buehrer

Class History

In the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-seven, in the month of September, there congregated in the halls of learning, known as the Camden-Frontier High School, of Camden, Michigan, approximately thirty members, who came seeking greater knowledge.

As Freshmen, we chose the following officers: Pres., William Watson; V.Pres., Donna Cook; Sec., Dianne Bates; Treas., Marella Salisbury; Athletic Rep., Ruth Abbott and LaVerne Nelson. Mr. William Warfield was our sponsor. We took part in the School Carnival and Dianne Bates represented the class as Queen. We sponsored and took part in many activities during this year.

At the beginning of our Sophomore year, we had approximately twenty-seven members to elect the following Officers: Pres., LaVerne Nelson; V. Pres., Jim Spurlock; Sec., Donna Cook; Treas., Duane Baughman; Athletic Rep., Marella Salisbury and Doren Howald. Mr. Carleton Bates was our sponsor during our Sophomore year. We again took part in the School Carnival and this year Connie Aller was our queen. During this year, we decided to start a school paper, which turned out to be a success.

When school resumed in nineteen forty-nine, we elected officers as follows: Pres., Sharon Person; V.Pres., Duane Baughman; Sec., Marella Salisbury; Treas., Shirley Johnston; Athletic Rep., Donna Cook and Jim Spurlock; Class Reporter, Dick Havens. Our class sponsors were Mrs. T. Hemphill and Mr. P. L. Bell. During this year we put out the school paper and presented the play "Good Gracious Grandma". Those who showed their talent were Jim Spurlock, LaVerne Nelson, Donna Cook, Ruth Abbott, Doren Howald, Dorothy Burke, Sharon Person, Dave Gratz, and Maurice Robinson. The Junior-Senior Banquet was held at the Arlington Hotel, Coldwater, Michigan. Our Carnival Queen this year was Marella Salisbury. Dorothy Burke joined our class and Rosemary returned to us from Reading.

As the Senior year started, we chose officers as follows: Pres. Doren Howald; V.Pres., Marion Heller; Sec., Marella Salisbury; Treas., Dorothy Burke; Athletic Rep., Shirley Johnston and Duane Baughman; Class Reporter, Ruth Abbott. Our class sponsor was Mr. Louis Balmes. The Senior Class presented the play "Just Ducky." Appearing in the cast were Duane Baughman, Sharon Person, Joan Buehrer, Jim Spurlock, Connie Aller, Doren Howald, Marion Heller, Dorothy Burke, Donna Cook, Ruth Abbott, Dave Gratz, and LaVerne Nelson. Shirley Johnston was Senior Candidate for Carnival Queen. Marella Salisbury, a member of the Senior Class, represented Camden-Frontier School at the Centennial Fair at Hillsdale, Michigan. We again published the School Paper. This was such a success, we decided to publish a School Annual, which worked out very well. The Seniors were guests of the Juniors at the Annual Junior-Senior Banquet, held April 13, 1951. A good time was enjoyed by all. Baccalaureate and Commencement were held May 13 and 16, 1951, respectively.

Class Prophecy

As columnist on the "Ship of Tomorrow". I make the following predictions for the "Class of 51".

It is now 1971 and Ruth Abbott is now known as Madam Ilene, interior decorator at the White House. She is under the direction of Mrs. Marion Heller, the former Shirley Johnston. Marion is carrying on his duties as President.

The White House is being redecorated for a banquet being given by Marella Salisbury Gier, the most talked of entertainer in Washington.

Maurice Robinson and David Gratz are the Presidents special FBI men who are looking for Admiral Kizer, who has disapperred with his wife, Connie Aller Kizer, from the Battleship USS Camden-Frontier. Mrs. Kizer is believed to have taken secrets on an invisable submarine developed by master scientists, William Watson and Dick Havens.

Mrs. Dianne May is visiting in Washington, while her husband, president of the New York Central Railroad, is in conference with woman senator, Joan Buehrer, in an effort to settle a railroad strike.

Joan Hukill and Donna Shaneour now own and operate an exclusive flower shop for the distinguished people of Washington.

Ensign Rosemary Salmon, of the Waves, is visiting Donna Cook Gier on her Dude Ranch. Sharon Person is Co-hostess. Sharon is married now and her twelve children are taking over the duties of the ranch.

Secretary of Agriculture, Duane Baughman, is entertaining his old classmate, Jim Spurlock, who is America's football immortal.

Dorothy Burke was here on visit the other day. She is an instructor at Tri-State College. Dorothy said on one of her recent trips she was entertained by Doren Howald and La Verne Nelson at Carnegie Hall. Doren does head walks while La Verne accompanies him on his bass horn.
